CC	Swiss Civil Code
CO	Swiss Code of Obligations

1.2 Registered partnership

¹ Throughout its duration, a registered partnership, within the meaning of the Federal Act of 18 June 2004 on the Registered Partnership between Persons of the Same Sex, is treated identically to marriage.

² The rights and obligations of registered partners are identical to those of married spouses. A surviving registered partner is treated in the same way as a surviving spouse.

³ The dissolution of the registered partnership is deemed equivalent to divorce.

1.3 Applicable age

² In other situations, particularly with regard to benefits, the applicable age is the age reached by the member, expressed in years and months.

1.4 Proportional sharing of the retirement savings capital

² The retirement savings capital is shared when a member is ruled partially invalid or if partial retirement benefits are paid.

1.5 Pricing and financial conditions

¹ Different pricing and financial conditions may apply to the retirement savings depending on the shadow account and the balance of the retirement savings capital (extra-mandatory), in particular with regard to interest rates and conversion rates.

2. Organisation, mission and representation

2.1 Organisation

¹ The Foundation is a pension fund within the meaning of Articles 80 et seq. CC, 331 CO and 48(2) BVG/LPP.

² The Foundation is structured as a collective benefit institution, comprising pension funds that are independent of each other and managed separately.

2.2 Mission

² The Foundation may offer pension benefits over and above the minimum legal amounts as set out under the Occupational Pensions Act. It may also offer optional as well as extra-mandatory coverage (outside the provisions of the Occupational Pensions Act).

³ In fulfilment of its mission, the Foundation may enter into insurance contracts or become a party to existing agreements. In these cases it is both policyholder and beneficiary.

2.3 Occupational Pension Fund Registry

¹ The Foundation has been entered in the Occupational Pension Fund Registry in accordance with Article 48 of the Occupational Benefits Act.

2.4 Representation

¹ The Foundation is governed by the Pension Board, which has delegated administration of the Foundation to Retraites Populaires, an institution under public law with its head office in Lausanne.

² As the administrator, Retraites Populaires administers and represents the Foundation, in observance of the organisational regulations.

3. Employer's affiliation to the Foundation

¹ The Pension Board has the authority to approve affiliation by a new employer after receiving a duly completed and signed written application from the latter.

² The terms and conditions of the employer's affiliation to the Foundation are specified in the affiliation agreement.

³ Subject to compliance with the principles applicable to occupational benefits, in particular the principle of collective insurance under a single and same contract, the affiliation contract may define different spheres of insurable persons and offer members in each sphere a choice of more than one pension scheme. No more than three plans may be offered.

4. Types of pension coverage

¹ The Foundation offers pension schemes classified under:

- BVG/LPP mandatory occupational benefits;
- mandatory occupational benefits above the minimum legal amounts;
- non-BVP/LPP (i.e. extra-mandatory) occupational benefits.

² The type of occupational pension adopted by the employer is defined in the pension scheme. .

5. Pension regulations

¹ As an appendix to the affiliation agreement, these pension fund regulations, including the appendices thereto, which form an integral part of the regulations, govern relations between the Foundation, employers, members and the beneficiaries of the latter.

² The nature and scope of the benefits provided and the financing thereof are governed by pension schemes specific to each affiliated pension fund. These are an integral part of the pension regulations.

³ If a discrepancy arises between an individual pension record and the pension regulations or the pension scheme, the latter two are authoritative.

6. Notification obligations of the employer

¹ The employer shall immediately inform the Foundation of any insurable person or any changes affecting membership or wage arrangements.

² The employer shall also inform the Foundation of any event of which it becomes aware that might influence the entitlements, the scope or the financing of benefits allotted by the Foundation, including but not limited to any change in the terms and conditions of loss-of-earnings insurance arranged by the employer and any cases of incapacity for work exceeding the time limit determined by the Foundation.

³ The other obligations under these regulations, the affiliation agreement and the other rules adopted by the Foundation are unaffected.

7. Notification obligations of members, pensioners and other beneficiaries

¹ Members, pensioners and other beneficiaries must immediately inform the Foundation of any event that would impact their occupational pension scheme, especially entitlements to and the scope of benefits.

² Specifically, the Foundation must be informed of:

- any change in marital status, if a maintenance obligation arises or ceases, or if an active member, pensioner or other beneficiary passes away;
- any change in employment level, salary, earning capacity or degree of disability, or when a child leaves school or finishes an apprenticeship;
- any and all income that needs to be included in benefit calculations and any changes thereto.

³ The Foundation can request to have sight of any original document tied to one of the aforementioned events or entitlements. If such documentation cannot be presented, the Foundation may choose to suspend or cancel the payment of benefits.

⁴ The other obligations under these regulations and the other rules adopted by the Foundation are unaffected.

8. Information provided to members

¹ Each member receives a personal pension benefit statement annually. The Foundation shall also provide information to members on their benefit entitlements, the coordinated salary, the contribution rate and the retirement savings capital, as well as the organisation, financing and the members of joint administration board.

² Each member may also request a copy of the latest annual report or other information as described under Article 86b of the Federal Act on Occupational Pensions (BVG/LPP).

II. MEMBERSHIP

9. Terms of membership

¹ The sphere of insurable persons and the terms of membership are set forth in the pension schemes complementing these regulations.

² Persons employed for a limited period that does not exceed three months, and persons who are at least 70% disabled under the IV/AI definition, cannot be included in the sphere of insurable persons. Otherwise, the terms of membership correspond to conditions for BVG/LPP mandatory insurance, subject to any special provisions in the pension scheme.

³ Individuals not gainfully employed in Switzerland or whose work in Switzerland is unlikely to be long term, and who have sufficient pension coverage abroad, may be exempted at their request.

⁴ The pension scheme may provide that the coordination deduction or the minimum and maximum amounts be fixed, for part-time employees, in proportion to their employment level.

⁵ A salary paid by an employer who is not affiliated to the Foundation is not taken into account and cannot be insured on a voluntary basis.

⁶ Where a member has a choice between different pension schemes, the terms and conditions for switching from one to another are defined under these plans.

10. Optional membership

¹ Employees already insured with the Foundation may request that income from ancillary gainful employment with other employers that are affiliated to the Foundation also be taken into consideration. Consent from all the employers concerned is required.

² Employees who work only a small proportion of their time for this employer and who have mandatory coverage through their main occupation may be covered optionally for this secondary activity as well, at their request and with the employer's consent, provided they meet the conditions set forth in the pension scheme.

11. Affiliation of self-employed persons

¹ Self-employed persons may join together with their employees.

² Self-employed persons who are members of a professional federation that has recognised the Foundation may join under the terms set out in the pension scheme as concerns their self-employed activity.

12. Admission and coverage

12.1 Admission

² Unless stated otherwise under the pension scheme, death and disability risks will be covered at the earliest from 1 January following the member's 17th birthday; retirement coverage will start at the earliest on 1 January following the member's 24th birthday.

³ Persons who, upon admission to the Foundation, are incapacitated for work or partially disabled are covered only on the basis of their earned salary in accordance with their employment or earning capacity.

⁴ For persons subject to provisional continuation of their coverage in accordance with Article 26a BVG/LPP, admission to the Foundation takes place at the earliest three years after the reduction or withdrawal of the IV/AI pension.

12.2 Pension coverage

² The consequences of an illness or accident that occurred before joining the Foundation are not covered and do not grant an entitlement to any benefits.

³ The insurable person is required to indicate voluntarily whether they are fully capable to work and whether they are receiving benefits from social or private-sector insurers or other pension funds, or whether applications for any such benefits are pending. In addition, they must also indicate any exclusions on health grounds applied to them by previous pension funds and when these exclusions were in force.

⁴ If the insurable person refuses to cooperate, or if the health declaration, additional information or the medical examinations required to establish the state of health of the insurable person are not provided or simply not carried out within the allotted time period, benefits will then be limited to the mandatory occupational provision under BVG/LPP. Risk coverage is excluded for extra-mandatory provision.

⁷ The Foundation may make one or more exclusions on health grounds for a maximum period of five years or even, in the case of extra-mandatory provision, refuse to offer all risk coverage. The occurrence of the risk subject to an exclusion during the applicable period of the latter does not afford any benefits, including contribution waivers in respect of extra-mandatory provision, even after the exclusion period has elapsed.

⁸ The Foundation will inform the insurable person in writing whether they can join, specifying the start date and scope of the coverage.

12.3 Increases in coverage

¹ The foregoing provisions will apply in a similar manner if coverage increases, even if such an increase stems from an amendment to the pension scheme.

12.4 End of coverage

¹ Pension coverage ends as soon as the membership conditions are no longer fulfilled, or in the event of death.

² However, coverage insuring against death and disability can be extended for one month or until the day on which a new pension scheme relationship begins, if this is earlier.

12.5 Concealment

¹ If the member has omitted to respond to or has responded inaccurately to questions, or if it becomes clear that the health declaration or medical certificate submitted to the Foundation is inaccurate or incomplete, the Foundation may depart from the pension agreement and withhold the proportion of disability or death benefits corresponding to mandatory occupational benefits above the minimum legal amounts or extra-mandatory benefits.

² The Foundation will inform the member of its decision within six months of receiving proof of concealment.

13. Inward transfers of vested benefits

² The inward transfers are used to claim regulatory benefits and credited to the member's retirement savings capital.

⁴ If the incoming funds are not fully absorbed after the member has claimed the full regulatory benefits, the balance is then allocated to the personal pre-financing account or, at the member's request, transferred to a vested benefits account or policy.

14. Voluntary contributions

14.1 Voluntary contributions – basic principle

¹ The member may make voluntary contributions if the available retirement assets, plus all additional pension assets, vested termination benefits and '3a' pension saving account assets (to the extent that the latter exceed the allowable legal limits), as well as withdrawals for the purposes of home ownership, are less than what the member would have accrued had they been insured with the Foundation since the first possible admission date, on the basis of the pensionable salary at the time of the voluntary contribution, taking interest at a rate determined by the pension scheme.

² The maximum purchasable amount is the difference between these two amounts.

³ In the event of continued membership after the regulatory retirement age, the theoretical maximum retirement capital corresponds to the retirement savings capital that would have been accrued when reaching the regulatory retirement age, calculated using the salary in force in that calendar year.

⁵ Employer contributions to improve the overall level of benefits are also subject to rules applying to voluntary contributions.

⁶ The member alone is responsible for their personal taxation. The Foundation will under no circumstances guarantee that voluntary contributions will be tax deductible.

14.2 Personal pre-financing account

¹ When considering early retirement, the member may compensate for reduced retirement benefits ahead of time by paying into a personal pre-financing account.

² If early retirement is subsequently not taken, however, the target benefits at the regulatory retirement age may not be exceeded by more than 5%. Any amount exceeding this limit reverts to the Foundation, with the exception of surplus amounts transferred in from another occupational benefits institution, which are returned to the member.

³ Amounts paid into the personal pre-financing account earn interest at a rate set by the Foundation upon receipt of the contribution.

⁴ It is only possible to open a personal pre-financing account if:

- all the amounts from the previous occupational pension scheme have been transferred to the Foundation;
- the member has explored every other avenue for filling in gaps in coverage;
- the member is fully capable of working

⁵ Payments into the personal pre-financing account can be made at any time, but no later than the day prior to receiving early retirement benefits.

⁶ The amount available in the personal pre-financing account can be used to fill in gaps in coverage.

⁷ The personal pre-financing account will be closed:

- when pension benefits are received, according to the conversion rates applied to the retirement savings capital, subject to the limit laid down in point 2. If payment of a lump sum is requested in accordance with Article 20.4, the available balance of the personal pre-financing account is reduced proportionately;
- if a full disability benefit is received, through the payment of a supplementary lump sum at the regulatory retirement age or, at the pensioner's discretion, in the form of an increased retirement benefit, subject to the limit laid down in point 2;
- in the event of death, through payment of a supplementary lump sum to the beneficiary, under the terms of Article 18.7;
- in the event of transfer or payment in cash of the vested benefits.

14.3 Voluntary contribution limits

¹ Where withdrawals have been granted for the purposes of home ownership, voluntary contributions can only be made once these have been repaid or reimbursement is no longer permissible.

² Benefits corresponding to voluntary contributions may not be paid out as a lump sum by the Foundation until a period of three years has elapsed.

³ There are no restrictions on voluntary contributions to purchase vested termination benefits transferred out under a divorce settlement.

⁴ Other statutory and tax restrictions are expressly reserved.

14.4 Voluntary contribution financing

¹ Voluntary contributions must be made through a single payment.

² The pension scheme will set out whether the employer also contributes and to what extent.

15. Salary

15.1 Reference salary

¹ The reference salary is the last recorded or determined annual AHV/AVS salary, less the following occasional items:

- bonuses;
- overtime;
- substitution allowances;
- deferred bonuses, from the first year in employment;
- gratuities and commissions;
- severance payments;
- household and child allowances;
- service uniforms;
- employer-financed voluntary contributions.

² Information on the reference salary is provided by the employer at the end of each calendar year for the subsequent calendar year, or at the time of hiring during the current calendar year.

⁴ If a member is employed for less than a year by their employer, the reference salary corresponds to the full-year value.

⁶ The reference salary is limited to ten times the highest amount referred to in Article 8(1) of the Occupational Pensions Act. If the member has more than one pension relationship and the total salary and other income subject to AHV/AVS exceeds this threshold, they must inform the Foundation.

15.2 Insured salary

¹ The insured salary is defined in the pension scheme and is not necessarily the same as the reference salary.

² The pension scheme will specify if a minimum salary is insured.

15.3 Changes in salary and employment level

¹ The employer shall notify the Foundation, using the specific form, of any change in the reference or insured salary or in the employment level.

² The changes take effect on the date noted by the employer on the specific form but no earlier than the receipt date of this form. Only an amendment to the employment contract may result in a retroactive change in salary.

³ Any change announced after a person becomes unable to work, disabled or passes away is not taken into account by the Foundation when calculating the benefits due.

⁴ If the salary is temporarily reduced as a result of sickness, an accident, unemployment, maternity leave, paternity leave or other similar circumstances, the insured salary is maintained for as long as the employer's obligation to pay this salary has not lapsed. The member may however request a reduction in the insured salary.

⁵ Unless the member submits a written request, the Foundation will not produce a vested benefits statement upon a change in employment level.

15.4 Maintenance of insured salary

¹ Except in cases of disability or partial retirement, members whose salary is reduced or not paid (unpaid leave) may ask, in agreement with their employer, to maintain their coverage based on their last insured salary.

² If the member is aged 58 or above at the time of this reduction, and their salary is reduced by no more than half, they may maintain their insured salary until reaching the regulatory retirement age. In all other circumstances, maintenance of salary is limited to 24 consecutive months.

³ The employer must inform the Foundation that the insured salary will be maintained, remaining liable for the entirety of the contributions due, without allowing for changes in the ratios provided in the pension scheme. Any further agreement between the employer and the member is not binding on the Foundation.

⁴ In cases of unpaid leave where the insured salary is not maintained, the obligation to pay contributions is suspended. No voluntary contributions may be made. Pension coverage for death and disability risks is maintained for one month. Beyond this period, no pension benefits will be paid in the event of disability. In the event of death, the retirement savings capital reverts to the beneficiaries in accordance with these regulations, to the exclusion of all other benefits.

III. PLAN BENEFITS

16. Types of benefit

¹ The Foundation may award the benefits described in this section.

² The nature and scope of the insured benefits are noted in the pension scheme.

17. Retirement benefits

17.1 Retirement savings capital

² The retirement savings capital includes:

- retirement credits;
- vested benefits transferred into the plan;
- voluntary contributions and any other payments;
- interest;
- distributions of surplus or non-committed funds (where applicable).

³ The following is deducted from the retirement savings capital:

- withdrawals for the purposes of home ownership;
- withdrawals resulting from a divorce settlement in which the assets are split

⁴ Retirement credits are defined in the pension scheme.

⁵ Interest is applied at the rates set by the Foundation to the retirement savings available at the end of the previous year. Rates are established by pension fund or by cohort, for pension funds applying this system. Voluntary contributions and other payments, or withdrawals, during the year are considered on a pro rata basis.

17.2 Entitlement to benefits

¹ Members are entitled to retirements benefits from the first day of the month following that in which they reached the regulatory retirement age.

² The regulatory retirement age is reached on the day on which the member reaches the statutory retirement age or the age specified in the pension scheme.

17.3 Retirement pension

¹ The retirement pension is calculated using the retirement savings capital accrued at the commencement date; it is converted into a pension using the conversion rates, mentioned in the annex, at the time of conversion.

² The retirement pension is lifelong and supersedes any current disability benefits.

17.4 Early retirement benefits

¹ If a member leaves gainful employment after reaching the age of 58 but before the regulatory retirement age, they are entitled to vested benefits if they continue working in an employed or self-employed capacity, or if they apply for unemployment benefit. Failing that, the member will be granted early retirement benefits.

² In cases of corporate restructuring, the member may – in agreement with the employer – claim their entitlement to retirement benefits early, although no sooner than from the first day of the month following their 55th birthday.

³ Where entitlements are claimed early, the retirement benefits are calculated using the conversion rates defined in the annex applied on the basis of the retirement assets accrued at that point in time.

⁴ If death benefits become payable following early retirement, the amount corresponds to the benefits that would be paid following the death of a pensioner, even if death occurs before the regulatory retirement age.

17.5 Partial retirement benefits

¹ In agreement with the employer, partial retirement is possible provided that the member stops working in the same proportion. Their new employment level must be no lower than 20%.

² The reduction in the employment level must be equivalent to at least one day per week.

³ An increase in partial retirement entails a reduction in their employment level by at least one day per week and may only be requested once per year, initially in the calendar year following partial retirement, and no more than twice altogether.

⁴ The retirement savings capital is split proportionally.

17.6 Deferred payment of early retirement benefits

² During the deferment period, disability benefits are not insured. Accumulated retirement savings capital continues to earn interest until the end of the deferment period.

³ If, before reaching the regulatory retirement age, the member engages in gainful employment again, through which they become members of an occupational benefits institution, the pension coverage terminates and provisions governing payment of the vested benefits become applicable.

⁴ If the member passes away during the deferment period and if no survivor's benefit is due, the accrued capital reverts to the beneficiaries in accordance with Article 18.7 of these regulations. If that is not the case, benefits will be determined on the basis of the retirement pension that would have become payable on the first day of the month after the member passes away.

17.6B Continuation of coverage after the age of 58

¹ A member who, after reaching the age of 58, sees their employment relationship terminated by their employer may apply to remain a member of the Foundation on the basis of their final insured salary until the regulatory retirement age.

² A member who wishes to remain in the pension scheme must inform the Foundation in writing no later than 30 days after expiry of the notice period under the employment contract.

³ If coverage continues, the member pays the full monthly contributions due in advance, covering both the employee's and employer's shares, under the terms of the pension scheme to cover risks, inflation and costs. They must also cover any recovery contributions payable by members. They can also continue to pay, at their own expense, the full amount of the contributions for building up the savings capital, under the terms of the pension scheme.

⁴ The decision to continue paying contributions to build up the savings capital must be taken by the same deadline as stated under point 2.

⁵ Any member who initially decides to continue paying contributions into their savings capital may later opt to discontinue these payments.

⁷ Continued coverage will also cease at the member's request from the end of the current month, or if the member does not pay the contributions owed. If contributions are not paid, the Foundation will address an order to pay the amount owed within a 14-day period. If payment has not been received within this period, coverage will be discontinued. Coverage terminates at the end of the last month for which a contribution was paid.

⁸ If coverage has been maintained for more than two years, only benefits in the form of a pension can be awarded. At the end of this period, the member may no longer obtain a withdrawal for the purposes of home ownership or pledge their pension assets.

⁹ Any member who maintains their pension coverage is obliged to inform the Foundation immediately of any change in their circumstances, especially if they get a new job, join another occupational benefits institution or become unable to work. If an entitlement to benefits arises but the member has not duly provided this information, the Foundation may reduce or cancel their benefits accordingly.

17.7 Deferment of retirement benefits

² The accrued retirement savings continue to bear interest, and voluntary contributions to purchase insurance years remain possible. The member remains liable for contributions, with no changes in the ratios provided in the pension scheme.

³ Disability pensions are not paid once the regulatory retirement age has been reached. If the member becomes totally or partially unable to work, they automatically become entitled to retirement benefits at the end of the qualifying period for contribution waivers under the terms of the pension scheme, although no later than five years after the statutory retirement age. If the member passes away and if no survivor's benefit is due, the accrued capital reverts to the beneficiaries in accordance with Article 18.7 of these regulations. If that is not the case, benefits will be determined on the basis of the retirement pension that would have become payable on the first day of the month after the member passes away.

17.8 AHV/AVS bridging pension

¹ Members receiving a retirement pension may request payment of an AHV/AVS bridging pension until the statutory retirement age, provided they are not in receipt of AHV/AVS or IV/AI benefits.

² This request should be made in writing no later than three months before retirement is taken. The request can be submitted only once and is irrevocable.

³ The amount of the AHV/AVS bridging pension is freely determined by members. It is invariable and may not exceed the maximum full state retirement pension. The AHV/AVS bridging pension is not indexed to inflation.

⁶ In addition to the AHV/AVS bridging pension under this current provision, an AHV/AVS bridging pension may be provided for under the terms of the pension scheme.

17.9 Pensioner's child pension

² The amount of the pension is determined by the pension scheme.

³ Payment of the pensioner's child pension begins at the same time and to the same degree as the retirement pension and ceases upon the death of the pensioner or the child, or as soon as the child has reached the age set out in the pension scheme.

⁴ The pension remains payable up to the age of 25 in the following cases:

- if the child is undertaking an apprenticeship or pursuing further education;
- if the child is at least 70% disabled under the IV/AI definition and is unable to engage in gainful employment.

17.10 Supplementary savings plan

¹ If the pension scheme provides for payment of a supplementary savings contribution, these payments are recorded in a separate supplementary savings account from the member's retirement savings.

² The amount available in the supplementary savings account as at 31 December of the previous year bears interest at the rate determined by the Foundation. Voluntary contributions and withdrawals during the year are considered on a pro rata basis.

³ The supplementary savings account is reduced in the event of a withdrawal for the purposes of home ownership or a transfer in case of divorce.

⁴ Upon retiring, the member may use the supplementary savings account as follows:

- withdraw part or all of the sum as a one-time allowance subject to the restrictions laid down in the specific statutory and regulatory provisions;
- add part or all of the sum to extra-mandatory retirement assets to receive a lifetime retirement pension under the conditions laid down in these regulations;
- allocate part or all of the sum, in the event of early retirement, to finance an AHV/AVS bridging pension under the conditions laid down in these regulations.

⁵ If a member takes partial retirement, the supplementary savings account will be divided proportionally.

⁶ The regulatory provisions relating to the deferred payment of retirement benefits are applicable to the supplementary savings account, including in the event of death.

⁷ If a member passes away, the amount available in the supplementary savings account is paid out as a single lump sum in accordance with the specific regulations.

⁸ If a member becomes partially or fully exempt from having to pay contributions, the supplementary savings account may no longer be credited. Regulatory provisions on contribution waivers do not apply to the supplementary savings account.

⁹ If a member becomes partially or completely disabled, the supplementary savings account is maintained unchanged, credited only with interest from that point onwards.

¹⁰ If a member switches to a pension scheme without a supplementary savings scheme, the available assets are added to the extra-mandatory retirement assets. If a member leaves the Foundation before benefits become payable, the amount available in the supplementary savings account is added to the vested benefits.

¹¹ A member who wishes to join the supplementary savings scheme must notify the employer using the relevant form. The employer will then send the transfer form to the Foundation before 30 November of the current year. Membership takes effect on 1 January of the following year and is valid for the entire calendar year. These contributions cannot be suspended during the year unless the employment relationship is terminated or if membership requirements are no longer met.

18. Death benefits

18.1 Entitlement to benefits

¹ The Foundation provides death benefits if the deceased was a member or pensioner at the time of their death or when the incapacity for work the cause of which led to their death arose.

² For mandatory occupational benefits under BVG/LPP and those above the minimum legal amounts, the Foundation also awards death benefits, up to the minimum benefits provided for under the Occupational Benefits Act, if the deceased acquired a disability before reaching adulthood or as a result of a congenital disease and:

- had an incapacity for work of at least 20% but no more than 40% when beginning gainful employment, and
- was insured on the date when the incapacity for work the cause of which led to their death increased to at least 40%.

³ The entitlement to benefits starts when the member or pensioner passes away but not before the entitlement to the full salary lapses.

⁴ Benefits allocated in the form of a pension start from the first month following the death.

18.2 Surviving spouse's pension

¹ The surviving spouse is entitled to a pension, the amount of which is determined in the pension scheme if, at the time when the member or pensioner passes away, they meet one of the following conditions:

- they have one or more child dependants;
- they are aged 45 or above and the marriage lasted for at least five years.

² If the surviving spouse does not meet any of the above conditions, they are entitled to a one-time allowance equal to three annual pensions.

³ Entitlement to a surviving spouse's pension lapses if the person remarries or passes away.

⁴ If the pension scheme grants a surviving spouse's pension under a broader range of conditions, the pension is paid even if the conditions noted under point 1 are not fulfilled. In addition, if the pension ceases because the surviving spouse has remarried before the age of 45, a one-time allowance equal to three times the annual pension is paid.

18.3 Divorced-surviving spouse's pension

² The divorced-surviving spouse's pension cannot exceed the minimum benefits provided for under the Occupational Benefits Act and will be curtailed to the extent that, when added to other insurance benefits (in particular AHV/AVS), it exceeds the amount allocated under the divorce decree.

³ Entitlement to a divorced-surviving spouse's pension remains valid as long as the fair compensation or maintenance should have been paid. The entitlement ceases if the divorced-surviving spouse remarries.

18.4 Surviving cohabiting partner's pension

¹ If the member or pensioner passes away, their partner as defined in these regulations is entitled to a pension, the amount of which is determined in the pension scheme.

² Entitlement to a surviving partner's pension lapses if they marry or pass away.

18.5 Reductions

¹ If the surviving spouse is more than ten years' younger than the deceased member, the surviving spouse's pension is reduced by 1% of this amount per year, or fraction of a year, exceeding ten years.

² If the marriage occurred after joining the Foundation and after the member reached the statutory retirement age, the surviving spouse's or divorced-surviving spouse's pensions are reduced according to the following percentages of the full pension:

- 80% in case of marriage in the first year after the statutory retirement age, 60% in case of marriage
- in the second year after the statutory retirement age, 40% in case of marriage in the third year after the statutory retirement age and 20% in case of marriage in the fourth year after the statutory retirement age;
- these rates are, where applicable, multiplied by the rate of the reduced pension under point 1.

³ There is no entitlement to a pension if marriage took place more than four years after the statutory retirement age.

⁴ Where a marriage has taken place after the statutory retirement age, if a member is suffering from a serious illness of which they should be aware, and which causes their death within two years of the marriage, no survivor's pension will be due.

⁵ The provision applies in a similar manner to partners.

⁶ Minimum pensions under the terms of the Occupational Pensions Act in any case remain guaranteed.

18.6 Orphan's pension

¹ An orphan's pension is paid to each child if a member or pensioner passes away.

² The amount of this allowance is determined by the pension scheme.

³ The orphan's pension becomes payable in the month after the member passes away, but at the earliest when the entitlement to full pay lapses, and ceases upon the death of the pensioner or the child, or as soon as the child has reached the age laid down in the pension scheme.

⁴ The allowance remains payable up to the age of 25 in the following cases:

- if the child is following an apprenticeship or further education;
- if the child is at least 70% disabled under the IV/AI definition and is unable to engage in gainful employment.

18.7 Lump-sum death benefit

¹ If a member passes away before retirement benefits are paid, the available retirement savings capital reverts as follows:

- if one or more surviving spouse's, divorced-surviving spouse's or partner's pensions are being paid, only the part of the lump sum exceeding the present value of the existing above-mentioned regulatory death benefits reverts to the beneficiaries;
- if a one-time allowance is paid, only the part of the lump sum exceeding the value of the one-time allowance reverts to the beneficiaries;
- the payment of one or more orphan's pensions has no bearing on the retirement savings capital;
- if no death benefit or one-time allowance is payable, the available retirement savings capital reverts in full to the beneficiaries.

² If provided for by the pension scheme, voluntary contributions by the member are returned as lump sums to the beneficiaries. The amount paid is deducted from the available retirement savings capital.

³ If provided for by the pension scheme in accordance with the conditions laid down therein, an additional death benefit will be paid to the beneficiaries.

⁴ The beneficiaries are, in the following order, the surviving spouse or surviving cohabiting partner as defined by these regulations; otherwise the children entitled to a pension; otherwise other maintained persons substantially dependent on the deceased.

⁵ If no beneficiary as defined in point 4 exists, the beneficiaries are the children not entitled to an orphan's pension; otherwise the parents; otherwise any siblings.

⁶ If no beneficiary as defined by points 4 and 5 exists, only half of the available retirement savings will be paid to the other legal heirs, excluding public authorities. If there are no intestate heirs, the available retirement savings capital will accrue to the Foundation.

⁷ Amounts are divided up equally between beneficiaries based on how they are ranked. By providing written notice to the Foundation, the member may change the order of the beneficiaries mentioned under the same point, specify the share of each beneficiary, or both, although the order of priority between points 4 to 6 cannot be reversed.

⁸ If the member passes away during the deferment period, the retirement savings capital and any or all voluntary contributions made by the member as well as payment of any supplementary death benefit may be reimbursed, under the terms set out in Article 17.7, point 3 of these regulations.

19. Disability benefits

19.1 Entitlement to benefits

¹ Members are entitled to benefits if they become at least 40% disabled under the IV/AI definition, provided that they were insured at the onset of their incapacity for work, the cause of which led to their disability.

² For mandatory occupational benefits under BVG/LPP and those above the minimum legal amounts, members who became incapacitated under the IV/AI definition as a result of a congenital disease or before adulthood are entitled to the minimum disability benefits under the Occupational Benefits Act if:

- the incapacity for work was at least 20% but no more than 40% when they joined the pension scheme, and
- they were insured on the date when incapacity for work the cause of which led to their disability increased to at least 40%.

19.2 Disability pension

² The insured salary at the outset of the incapacity for work, the cause of which led to the disability, is decisive for calculating disability benefits.

³ The retirement savings capital used as reference for the calculation comprises the retirement savings capital accruing at the time of entitlement to disability benefits, plus the sum of the retirement credits under the pension scheme for future years up to the regulatory retirement age, excluding interest.

⁴ The degree of disability and the start of entitlement are based on the decision by the IV/AI authorities, except in cases where the decision is clearly untenable or the Foundation has not been notified.

19.3 Disabled member's child pension

² The amount of the pension is determined by the pension scheme.

³ Payment of the disabled member's child pension begins at the same time and to the same degree as the disability pension and ceases upon the death of the child, or as soon as the child has reached the age set out in the pension scheme.

⁴ The pension remains payable up to the age of 25 in the following cases:

- if the child is following an apprenticeship or further education;
- if the child is at least 70% disabled under the IV/AI definition and is unable to engage in gainful employment.

19.4 Contribution waivers

¹ In the event of total or partial incapacity for work owing to a physical or mental impairment, established on the basis of objective medical criteria, or if the insured is deemed to be disabled under the AI/IV definition, the employer and the member are released from paying contributions after expiry of the qualifying period established in the pension scheme.

² Contribution waivers are granted in line with the decision from IV/AI authorities, except in cases where the decision is clearly untenable or has not been notified to the Foundation. If the qualifying period established in the pension scheme expires before the AI/IV decision, the contribution waiver is granted temporarily on the basis of the medical certificates and examinations required by the Foundation.

⁴ If a contribution waiver is granted, the occupational benefit institution continues to pay the amount of the retirement credit covered by the waiver into the insured person's retirement savings capital, in accordance with the pension scheme.

19.5 Rules common to disability benefits

¹ Disability benefits, including contribution waivers, are paid in proportion to the degree of disability (IV/AI-assessed degree of disability), using the following scale:

- if degree of disability is 70% or higher, a full disability pension is paid;
- if degree of disability is 50-69%, the pension rate corresponds to the assessed degree of disability;

- if degree of disability is below 50 %, the pension rate is calculated as follows :

Degree of disability	Pension rate
40 %	25 %
41 %	27.5 %
42 %	30 %
43 %	32.5 %
44 %	35 %
45 %	37.5 %
46 %	40 %
47 %	42.5 %
48 %	45 %
49 %	47.5 %

A degree of disability below 40% does not give entitlement to benefits.

A disability pension that has already been determined will be increased, reduced or withdrawn if the degree of disability changes to the extent defined in Art. 17(1) ATSV/LPGA. The transitional provisions under the amended law of 19 June 2020 (IV/AI modernisation) stated under BVG/LPP apply by analogy

² Payment of disability benefits begins after the qualifying period laid down in the pension scheme but no earlier than when the entitlement to an IV/AI pension arises.

³ A new qualifying period begins if the member regains full earning capacity for an unbroken period of one year or more.

⁴ The payment of disability benefits is deferred for as long as the member receives their salary or daily allowances in replacement thereof either fully or partly, when at least half-funded by the employer.

⁵ The entitlement to disability benefits will be reviewed if the degree of incapacity for work or the disability change, the AI/IV authorities issue a new decision, the member's financial circumstances change, or any other factor arises.

⁶ Entitlement to disability benefits ceases if:

- the disability ends;
- the degree of disability falls below 40%;
- the member passes away;
- the member reaches the regulatory retirement age.

⁷ If the coverage and entitlements are maintained provisionally under the terms of Article 26a BVG/LPP, the Foundation will continue to pay the assigned benefits, adjusted to fit the applicable legal and regulatory provisions.

19.6 Duty to cooperate

¹ Members have a duty to cooperate and provide all necessary information to the Foundation. The Foundation may require members to submit a request to the IV/AI authorities or participate in any kind of measure to further professional, medical and social reintegration, even if such measures are implemented within another insurance relationship or by a partner of the Foundation.

² If a member refuses to cooperate or if the IV/AI authorities provisionally suspend payment of a disability pension in accordance with Article 52a ATSV/LPGA, the Foundation may suspend or even cancel the contribution waiver.

20. Basic provisions governing benefits

20.1 Supporting documentation and review of benefit entitlements

¹ Benefits will only be paid once the beneficiary has produced all the documents required by the Foundation to prove their entitlement to such benefits. The Foundation may require the legal authentication of signatures, at the beneficiary's expense.

² Active members, pensioners and other beneficiaries are required to inform the Foundation immediately of any factor or event that may affect their entitlement to benefits.

³ The Foundation may at any time review the entitlement to benefits and link the payment of benefits to production of a proof-of-life certificate.

20.2 Definition of «cohabiting partner»

¹ Death benefits in favour of a cohabiting partner are only paid if all the following conditions are met:

- the deceased member or pensioner had been living in the same household with this partner continuously for at least five years immediately preceding death, or the partner is obliged to provide for the maintenance of one or more common children;
- there is no kinship between them to a degree that prohibits marriage;
- the member or the pensioner and the cohabiting partner were not married on the day of the former's death;
- the cohabiting partner is not receiving a survivor's benefit, either as a spouse or as a surviving partner;
- the member or pensioner has notified the Foundation of the cohabitation before their death, using the specific form.

20.3 Definition of «child»

¹ The children of members who are entitled to a pensioner's, disabled person's or orphan's pension are

- children as defined under Article 252 CC;
- children taken in by members as defined under Article 49 AHVV/RAVS.

20.4 Form of benefits

¹ Retirement, survivors' and disability benefits are ordinarily granted in the form of a pension.

² The Foundation grants a lump-sum benefit instead of a pension if the pension is lower than the percentages specified in Article 37(3) of the Occupational Pensions Act.

³ Subject to Article 17.6B, point 6, a member who wishes to receive all or part of the lump-sum benefit in lieu of a retirement pension (minimum of one-quarter) must make this choice in writing at least one month before the pension entitlement arises. Once this deadline has expired, the decision is irrevocable. In the case of partial retirement, a lump-sum payment may be requested only once. For members who are married, the written consent of the spouse is required.

⁴ The payment of a lump sum extinguishes the entitlement to other benefits to the same degree, in particular the pensioner's child pension and any future death benefits.

⁵ Subject to point 2, a retirement benefit granted after a current disability benefit (pension and/or contribution waiver) may not be paid out as a lump sum.

⁶ The surviving spouse, the divorced-surviving spouse and the surviving cohabiting partner may apply in writing, before the first instalment of the pension is paid, for payment of the full lump sum instead of a pension. The Foundation determines the capital using actuarial calculations or, if applicable, the methodology used by its insurer in force at the time when the person passes away.

20.5 Over-compensation

¹ The Foundation may reduce disability and survivors' benefits under the BVG/LPP mandatory occupational provision and those above the minimum legal amounts where, together with other income to be considered in accordance with Article 24 of the Occupational Pensions Ordinance, these benefits exceed 90% of the annual income of which the person concerned is estimated to be deprived.

² For disability and survivors' benefits outside the provisions of the Occupational Pensions Act, the Foundation may reduce the benefits paid if, when added to other income to be considered in accordance with Article 24 of the Occupational Pensions Ordinance, these benefits exceed 90% of the reference salary at the start of the incapacity for work or at the time of death.

³ Members, pensioners and beneficiaries must report voluntarily to the Foundation all income and benefits that should be taken into consideration, as well as any changes in their family and financial circumstances.

⁴ The Foundation may at any time reconsider the conditions and scope for any reduction and adapt the benefits that it pays out if the situation changes significantly.

20.6 Coordination with accident insurance and federal military insurance

¹ Accident coverage is only provided if the pension scheme specifically provides for this. Otherwise, the scope of benefits, including the amount of the extended surviving spouse's pension or the cohabiting partner's pension if provided for under the applicable pension scheme, is restricted to the minimum benefits under the Occupational Benefits Act (BVG/LPP), except in the case of the contribution waiver, the supplementary lump-sum death benefit in the event of an accident and the reimbursement of the accrued retirement assets not used to finance other death benefits and.

² The benefits paid will be reduced in accordance with the rules applicable to cases of over-compensation when claims are made against accident insurance or military insurance for the same insured event.

³ The occupational benefits institution will not compensate for the refusal or reduction of benefits from accident or military insurance in cases where these insurance providers have reduced or refused benefits under the provisions of Articles 21 ATSV/LPGA, 20(2c and 2d), 37 and 39 UVG/LAA, 47, 65 and 66 MVG/LAM and other legislation.

20.7 Curtailments for gross negligence

¹ If AHV/AVS or IV/AI authorities reduce, withdraw or deny benefits on the grounds that the death or disability of a member was caused through the gross negligence of the beneficiary, or if the member refused rehabilitation measures required by the IV/AI authority, the Foundation may reduce its benefits accordingly.

20.8 Subrogation

¹ As soon as an insured event occurs, the Foundation is subrogated to the rights of the member, pensioner and the other beneficiaries in respect of any third party responsible for the disability or death up to the amount of the regulatory benefits.

² The Foundation may require the member, pensioner or other beneficiaries to submit a written declaration statement of assignment for benefits above the minimum legal amounts and for extra-mandatory benefits.

³ Where this assignment of rights does not take place, the Foundation is entitled to suspend benefits.

⁴ If, through the fault of the member, pensioner or other beneficiaries, it proves impossible to assert claims against the liable third party, the Foundation may deny or reduce benefits.

20.9 Assignment, pledging, offsetting

¹ Entitlements to benefits may not be assigned or pledged as long as they are not due for payment. This has no effect on home ownership provisions.

² Entitlements to benefits may only be set off against claims assigned by the employer to the Foundation if these claims relate to contributions that are not deducted from salaries.

20.10 Pension payments

² Except for disability pensions, the pension is paid in full for the month in which entitlement is extinguished.

³ Payment of the disability pension ceases concurrently with the pension entitlement.

⁴ Interest on arrears is payable at the fixed rate set by the Foundation, but not until 24 months have elapsed from the date on which the beneficiary asserted their claim, and provided they have fully complied with their duty to cooperate.

20.11 Reimbursement of improperly received benefits

¹ Benefits that are improperly received must be repaid. Reimbursement might not be requested where the beneficiary was acting in good faith and would face a financial predicament.

² The right to claim reimbursement expires three years after the Foundation becomes aware of the fact, but no later than five years after the benefit was paid. If the claim for reimbursement derives from a punishable act which is subject to a longer limitation period under criminal law, the latter period applies.

20.12 Pension indexing

¹ Disability and survivors pensions that have been in payment for more than three years are adjusted to the cost of living in accordance with the Federal Council's directives, up to the statutory retirement age of the pensioner or beneficiary. Subject to special rules in the pension scheme, if the pension paid exceeds the minimum benefits under BVG/LPP, only the portion of the pension corresponding to these minimum benefits is indexed.

² Other pensions not subject to this principle as well as retirement pensions are adjusted to the cost of living in accordance with the finances of the Foundation.

³ Further indexing is possible if it can be financed.

⁴ In lieu of indexing, the Foundation may decide to pay a one-time allowance..

20.13 Place of performance

¹ The place of performance for the payment of benefits by the Foundation is the pensioner or beneficiary's place of residence in Switzerland or that of their legal representative.

² The pensioner or beneficiary or their legal representative may request that other arrangements be made, provided that the costs and risks are borne by the pensioner or beneficiary or their legal representative.

20.14 Statute of limitations

¹ Entitlement to benefits does not lapse provided that the member has not exited the pension fund at the time of the insured event.

² Debts linked to contributions or periodic benefits become statute-barred after five years; those involving other claims after ten years. Articles 129 to 142 CO are applicable to the surplus.

20.15 Divorce

¹ In the event of divorce, the court will decide on the division of the occupational benefit accrued during the marriage. On request, the occupational benefit institution shall provide the member or the divorce court with the information required by law.

² The member may repurchase the portion of the vested benefit transferred to the creditor spouse. This is no longer possible in the event of incapacity for work or after exiting the Foundation.

³ If the accrued retirement savings are included in the calculation of disability and/or retirement benefits in accordance with the applicable pension scheme, transferring any sum to the creditor spouse results in a corresponding reduction in the insured benefits.

⁶ When a retirement pension is divided, the pension share allocated to the creditor spouse may be transferred in a lump sum to the creditor spouse's occupational benefits institution or to a vested benefits institution. The Foundation determines the lump sum using its own actuarial calculations. Where a lump sum is not transferred, the pension share is converted into a divorced spouse's lifetime pension. The divorced spouse's lifetime pension does not entitle the beneficiary to child or survivors' benefits. It is paid in accordance with the applicable legal provisions.

⁷ If the retirement savings capital and/or the retirement pension are divided, the BVG/LPP minimum benefits are recalculated.

IV. VESTED BENEFITS

21. Entitlement to vested benefits

¹ If a member leaves the Foundation before benefits become payable, they are entitled to vested benefits.

² The vested benefits are determined in accordance with Articles 15 and 17 ZZG/LFLP. The vested benefits are equal to the higher of the two calculations. In the event of underfunding, the interest rate provided for in Article 17 ZZG/LFLP is equal to the rate of interest on the accrued retirement savings capital. For mandatory occupational benefits under BVG/LPP and those above the minimum legal amounts, the retirement savings capital defined in Article 15 BVG/LPP is guaranteed in all cases.

³ The Foundation reserves the right to apply Article 7 ZZG/LFLP with the employer's consent.

⁴ The Foundation provides the departing member with a detailed statement of their vested benefits.

⁵ The vested benefits earn interest in accordance with the applicable legal provisions.

22. Transferring the vested benefits

¹ If the former member joins a new pension scheme, the vested benefits are transferred to this institution.

² If the former member does not join a new pension scheme, they must inform the Foundation of the legal options they intend to use to maintain their pension assets.

³ If they fail to do so, the Foundation transfers the vested benefits to the substitute pension scheme no earlier than six months but no later than two years after the vested benefit becomes available.

⁴ If the Foundation must pay survivors' or disability benefits after transferring the vested benefits to the new pension scheme, the vested benefits must be reimbursed to the extent necessary to cover the benefits. If no reimbursement is made, the benefits are reduced accordingly.

23. Cash payment of vested benefits

¹ If requested by the departing member, the Foundation will pay the vested benefits in cash subject to the restrictions laid down in Article 5 ZZG/LFLP, which applies to the following cases:

- if they leave Switzerland permanently, subject to the restrictions laid down in the free-movement agreements with the European Union, the European Free Trade Association and Liechtenstein;
- if they become self-employed and are no longer subject to mandatory pension cover;
- if the vested benefits amount is less than the member's annual contribution.

² In the case of married members, the cash payment may only be made with the spouse's written consent.

³ If this consent cannot be obtained or if the spouse withholds it without legitimate reason, the former member may seek a court injunction

V. ENCOURAGING HOME OWNERSHIP

24. Encouraging home ownership

¹ The member may apply to withdraw all or part of their accumulated retirement savings capital or pledge their entitlement to benefits to finance the purchase of their own home, in accordance with the law.

² The rules governing withdrawals and pledges are detailed in separate regulations.

VI. FUNDING

25. Sources of funds

¹ The funds of the Foundation are made up of the initial capital, contributions and transfers from employers and members, other inbound payments, gifts and bequests, benefits and profit-sharing from the institution's insurance policies as well as the income earned on invested assets.

² Any non-committed funds are accounted for separately for each employer.

26. Contributions

26.1 Nature and amount

¹ The Foundation may collect the following basic contributions:

- savings contributions;
- contributions for risks and inflation;
- contributions for costs;
- contributions to the Security Fund.

² In addition to basic contributions, the Foundation may make provision, in the cases set forth in these regulations, for a recovery contribution to cover the shortfall and a contribution to fund the conversion into a pension.

³ If a member's basic contributions and the retirement savings capital under the pension regulations are insufficient to finance the statutory minimum benefits, the Foundation will collect catch-up contributions in addition to the basic contributions.

⁴ The pension scheme defines the contributions payable and the calculation method.

26.2 Repartition

² The employer covers at least half of the total funding.

26.3 Payment

¹ The obligation to pay contributions begins at the start of pension coverage and ends when the member retires or passes away, or when the member leaves the Foundation. Rules relating to the continuation, deferment or release from the obligation to pay contributions in the event of disability are unaffected.

² Except where Article 17.6B of these regulations applies, the employer is liable for all contributions to the Foundation. The employer will deduct the member's contribution from their salary.

³ The employer will pay the contributions due to the Foundation as and when specified in the affiliation agreement. If the member remains within the scheme in application of Article 17.6B of the regulations, they shall pay the contributions due monthly.

⁴ In the event of a delay, the employer will pay interest on arrears at annual rate of 5% plus collection costs. The Foundation will also notify the regulatory authority.

⁵ Likewise, the Foundation may terminate the affiliation agreement at any time for non-payment with effect from the end of the month following the date on which the order to pay was sent.

27. Future contribution reserve

¹ The employer may, subject to the statutory requirements, set aside a reserve for future contributions.

² The future contribution reserve is held separately for each employer and may not be reimbursed to the employer under any circumstances. The interest rate is set by the Foundation.

28. Security Fund

¹ The Foundation is affiliated to the Security Fund, and pays it the contributions determined by the Federal Council.

² Subsidies from the Security Fund are used in accordance with the rules set by the Foundation.

29. Recovery measures

29.1 Temporary underfunding

¹ The Foundation determines separately for each pension fund a funded status and the amount of any underfunding, in accordance with the relevant legal directives.

² Temporary underfunding is authorised on the following conditions:

- it is guaranteed that benefits under the Occupational Pensions Act can be provided as soon as they fall due;
- the Foundation takes measures to rectify the underfunding in an appropriate timeframe.

³ When underfunding occurs, the Foundation must inform the regulatory authority, the pension committee, the employer, members and pensioners of the degree and causes of the underfunding and notify of the measures taken to address this.

29.2 Measures to address underfunding

¹ The Foundation, or where applicable the pension fund, must resolve underfunding without outside help. The Security Fund only becomes usable in cases of insolvency.

² The Foundation will take proportionate measures adapted to the pension fund's particular situation to resolve underfunding in an appropriate timeframe. These measures may be differentiated by cohort for pension funds applying this system. The pension committee may propose more extensive recovery measures. The Foundation may refuse a change to the pension scheme in the event of underfunding, especially if this change would have a negative impact on the pension fund's scope to regain fully funded status.

³ Among the measures for resolving underfunding, the Foundation may decide to reduce the interest rate credited to the retirement savings capital within the legally authorised limits or where admissible apply zero interest to the retirement savings capital in its entirety. The Foundation may also authorise employers to create contribution reserves with a stipulated waiver of use, accounted for separately for each employer, or make additional contributions.

⁴ If these measures fail to resolve the issue, the Foundation may decide to enact the following, for as long as underfunding persists:

- collect contributions from the employer and employees for resolving the underfunding. These contributions are payable in the same proportions as the basic contributions;
- collect a contribution from pensioners levied on benefits above the BVG/LPP statutory minimum or extra-mandatory benefits as a means of resolving underfunding. This contribution is deducted from pensions in payment and can only be levied on the portion of the current pension that, in the ten years preceding introduction of this measure, stemmed from increases which were not prescribed by legal or regulatory provisions. The amount of the pension established when the entitlement to the pension arose is at all times guaranteed.

⁵ If the measures under point 4 prove insufficient, the Foundation may decide to apply, for the duration of underfunding but for no longer than five years, interest below the minimum rate provided under Article 15(2) of the Occupational Pensions Act, although this may be no lower than 0.5%.

VII. CHANGING FOUNDATION AND PARTIAL LIQUIDATIONS

30. Terminating the affiliation agreement

¹ If the affiliation agreement is terminated, and in the absence of agreement from the Foundation for the continuation of the payment of current pensions, the mathematical reserves associated with these pensions are transferred to the employer's new occupational benefits institution.

² The affiliation agreement continues to apply to persons whose pensions continue to be paid by the Foundation.

31. Taking on pensioners

¹ When a new employer joins, the Foundation will only take over payment of current pensions of the pensioners and other beneficiaries if a written agreement specifying the terms of the recovery has been signed between the previous pension institution, the employer and the Foundation.

32. Partial liquidations

¹ The conditions and procedure governing partial liquidations are set forth in separate regulations.

VIII. FINAL PROVISIONS

33. Disputes

¹ The court designated by the canton in accordance with Article 73 of the Occupational Pensions Act is competent to hear any dispute between the Foundation, the employer, the member and beneficiaries arising from these regulations.

² The regulatory authority retains full authority.

³ The place of jurisdiction is the headquarters or the Swiss address of the defendant or the business premises in which the member is employed.

34. Amending the regulations and the pension scheme

¹ The Foundation may amend these regulations, including the appendices, at any time as permitted in law. If necessary, the Foundation will adopt interim provisions.

² If the pension scheme is amended, subject to any provision to the contrary therein, disability benefits will be awarded in accordance with the pension scheme in force at the time of the incapacity for work, the cause of which led to the disability. The pension scheme under which the disability or retirement benefits were awarded is also authoritative concerning any death benefits which have arisen therefrom.

35. Validity

¹ These regulations, adopted, by circulation of a written proposal, on 3 December 2021, are effective from 1 January 2022.
